

Politics at the Math

Sir Joseph Williamson's Mathematical School

Why this subject?

- ▶ 1: A fresh, new subject. Current, topical and interesting.
- ▶ 2: The importance of political literacy.
- ▶ 3: Compliments other subjects such as Economics & History.
- ▶ 4: A good career option. Many transferable skills and is considered to be a rigorous academic subject by universities.
- ▶ 5: Career options include: Law, Journalism, Civil Service, Publishing, or maybe even a Member of Parliament!

Why this school?

- ▶ Politics is one of the most popular and successful departments in the school. We currently have just under 60 students taking the subject across the two years.
- ▶ Our 2019 exam results were among the top 25 of the country, 37% of students got an A/A* grade, 75% of our students got an A or a B grade.
- ▶ Many of our students go on to read Politics and/or International Relations at university, or apply for subjects (such as Economics/History) where an A level in Politics is considered to be good compliment.
- ▶ Extra-curricular activities (see below)

How do I know if this is the right subject for me?

*Written based subjects (English & Humanities) need to be an area of strength for you. Assessments in Politics are all written essays

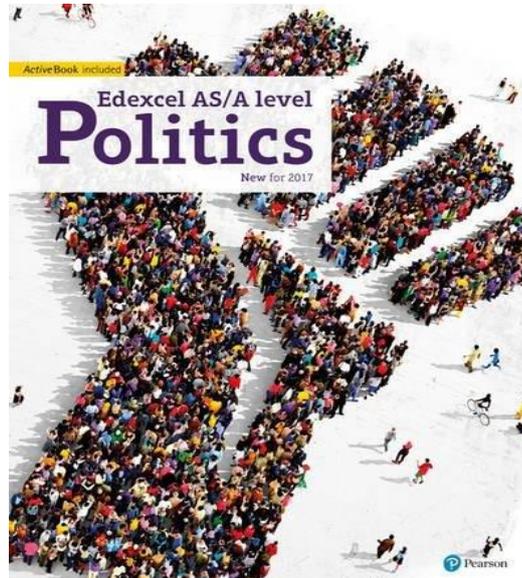

*You need to have an interest in current events

*You need to be comfortable in articulating and debating your opinions and the opinions of others. Be prepared to explore new ideas, new ways of looking at the world and have your opinions and pre-conceptions challenged.

*Unlike many other subjects, you will not have studied Politics before. Therefore you must ensure this subject is really for you. Read this, watch the ppt and contact the dept with any questions.

What will you study?

Politics is now a reformed subject which means this is now a two year A level course and AS is not an option. Three papers, three exams, all equal weighting. We follow the Edexcel specification.
